THE QUICKPOUCH VERTICAL IS A COMPACT, ECONOMICAL, CUSTOMIZABLE POUCH FORM / FILL / SEAL MACHINE DESIGNED TO FIT ALMOST ANY NEED

The QuickPouch Vertical is a cycle-on-demand system that uses a hot die to form pouches from rollstock, leaving the top of the pouch open for loading, and then sealing the pouch during the next cycle. The Vertical's time, pressure, and temperature monitoring system ensures optimum, repeatable, and validatable seal conditions for every pouch.

The QuickPouch Vertical is a compact and economical system that performs the same tasks as much larger pouch forming and filling machines but at a fraction of the cost and size. This allows for simpler expansion when your production requires higher output, with the added benefit of system redundancy to reduce potential downtime during maintenance or servicing. For companies with multiple products, pouch changeovers are fast and simple, taking as little as 10 minutes with included tools.

Pouch forming is the smarter way of packaging your product. Pre-made pouches are expensive, often times up to 1000% more expensive than pouches formed from rollstock. Material savings alone often lead to a payback period of under a year.

The QuickPouch Vertical is available with a wide selection of options including: printing, labeling, automatic part loading, liquid or powder filling, die cutting, and more. This allows fine tuning of the system to fit your unique needs.
